Background Information:

.As a babe she was dropped on the steps of a large mansion. The inhabitants of the mansion were a group of Wizards, and scholars studying, and wondering about the signs of the coming unrest She grew up quietly, and her life was filled with knowledge, and magic. She became a master of illusions by the time she was thirteen. She could read and write in several languages, and she knew more about what was happening on Ansalon, and what might be happening. When she was twenty she started asking her mentors questions they couldn't answer, they took her to the tower of Wayreth to begin her studies. She proved herself a talented wizard, and moved quickly to the Test. She moved into the test with confidence, and arrogance. She came out quiet, and reserved. Her talents were quickly put to the test during the War of the Lance, and when the Dark Queen was finally driven from Krynn she was chosen to lead this expedition. No one knows more about the artifact than her.
